

Good afternoon, my name is Michael Tege, I'm a life coach and the president and founder of elifeCounselor.

We provide highly specialized coaching services for individuals in the private sector, professionals within the corporate world, as well as companies at large with the intention of enhancing goal setting techniques, improving organizational skills and increasing bottom line productivity.

We do this through specialization in key life areas we have found to be most impactful on individuals as well as corporations, and where results and returns are greatest, such as in the key topic areas of: Teamwork, Motivating Employees, Empowerment and Time Management.

Our coaching techniques are designed to produce personal empowerment, life altering, enlightenments and realizations that are not just easy to implement but are completely energizing and empowering. Our coaching sessions are unique and customized to each individual, but all clients are guaranteed to achieve greater clarity of purpose, function and most importantly achieve maximum results. If you know someone or a company who might benefit from our individualized customized coaching sessions we'd love to know about them and be of service. If you don't mind I'd like to give you my card. May I have yours? It's been a pleasure talking with you. Have a FANTASTIC day!
